The following code would convert a string to a currency data type: Range("A1").Value = CCur("18.5") The result is: Stop searching for VBA code online. 1. Select a blank cell, and type this formula =TEXT(A1,"HHMMSS") (A1 indicates the cell you want to convert the military time to standard time, you can change it as you need), and press Enter, then drag the fill handle to fill the range you want. In the Format Cells dialog, click Number tab, and click Time from the Category box, then select the standard time format from the right section. In this tutorial, we are going to go over the functions that you need to use to convert a string to an integer, long, double, decimal or currency data type (Click here to learn about converting numbers to strings) Convert String to Integer You can use the CInt or CLng function to convert a string to an integer. Return to VBA Code Examples You may be required to convert numbers stored as text to actual numbers in your VBA code. Returned or set constants can be: xlGeneral, xlCenter, xlDistributed, xlJustify, xlLeft, xlRight, xlFill, xlCenterAcrossSelection. Then select the range B1:B6 (the range you use the above formula, you can change it as you need), and right click to click Format Cells. See here for more information about borders. See here for more information about cell fonts. For example, if you have this range of cells: this code below will return Null in the Immediate Window: ?Worksheets("Sheet1").Range("A1:B1").WrapText You can use the Immediate Window to see how the value would be processed if not converted to an integer: Debug.Print "13.5" + "13.5" Usually, the text will be stored as a variable and this variable will need to be converted to a number data type as shown in the code below: MsgBox CLng(valueOne) + CLng(valueOne) Convert String to Decimal You can use the CDbI or CDec function to convert a string to a decimal. See screenshot: 4. (No installation required!) Free Download Return to VBA Code Examples Maybe you have accepted a worksheet with a list of military time as shown as below, and you are used to viewing standard time, so you want to convert these military time to standard time in Excel, how can you do? For example: Worksheets("Sheet1").Range("A1").VerticalAlignment = xlTop WrapText This property returns True if text is wrapped in all cells within the specified range, False if text is not wrapped in all cells within the specified range, or Null if the specified range contains some cells that wrap text and other cells that don't. If the fraction is less than .5 the function will round down, if the fraction is greater than or equal to .5 the function will round up. Select a blank cell to type this formula =TIMEVALUE(LEFT(A1,2)&":"&MID(A1,3,2)&":"&RIGHT(A1,2)) (A1 indicates the cell you want to convert the military time to standard time, you can change it as you need), and press Enter key, then drag the fill handle to fill the range you want. It's full function without limitation in 30 days, please download and have a free trial now. See screenshot: Tip.If you want to convert nonstandard dates to the standard date mm/dd/yyyy , please try to use the Kutools for Excel's Convert to Date as shown in the following screenshot. It can be used also for locking or unlocking cells. See screenshot: Convert standard time to military with formula in Excel To convert standard time to military time, you also can use a formula to solve it. Relative Articles: No ratings yet. Returned or set constants can be: xlCenter, xlDistributed, xlJustify, xlBottom, xlTop. For example, if you need to merge the range of C5:D7, you can use this code: Worksheets("Sheet1").Range("C5:D7").MergeCells = True NumberFormat You can set the number format within the cell(s) to General, Number, Currency, Accounting, Date, Time, Percentage, Fraction, Scientific, Text, Special and Custom. Learn more about AutoMacro - A VBA Code Builder that allows beginners to code procedures from scratch with minimal coding knowledge and with many time-saving features for all users! Learn More!! IndentLevel It returns or sets an integer value between 0 and 15 that represents the indent level for the cell or range. Its value can be one of these constants: xlDownward, xlHorizontal, xlUpward, xlVertical or an integer value from -90 to 90 degrees. The following code would convert a string to a double data type: The result is: The following code would convert a string to a decimal data type: MsgBox CDec("13.57") + CDec("13.4") The result is: You can use the Immediate Window to see how the value would be processed if not converted to a double or decimal data type: Debug.Print "13.57" + "13.4" The result is: Note: The decimal data type can store larger numbers than the double data type, so it's always advisable to use the decimal data type when you are uncertain. See screenshot: Tip: If the standard time just have hour and minute such as 11:23 PM, you can use this formula =TEXT(A1,"HHMM"). Formatting Cells There are many formatting properties that can be set for a (range of) cells like this: With Worksheets("Sheet1").Range("B5:C7") .HorizontalAlignment = xlHAlignDistributed .Font.FontStyle = "Italic" .NumberFormat = "General".Interior.Color = RGB(128, 100, 250) Let's see them in alphabetical order: AddIndent By setting the value of this property to True the text will be automatically indented when the text alignment in the cell is set, either horizontally or vertically, to equal distribution (see HorizontalAlignment and VerticalAlignment). This example unlocks cells A1:B2 on Sheet1 so that they can be modified when the sheet is protected. In modern programming, there's no reason not to use the long data type since memory is no longer an issue. So it's always better to use a long data type instead of an integer. Orientation You can set (or get returned) the text orientation within the cell(s) by this property. .xlam add-in. Worksheets("Sheet1").Range("A1").ShrinkToFit = True VerticalAlignment This property cell format property returns or sets a variant value that represents the vertical alignment for the specified object. Simply navigate to the menu, click, and the code will be inserted directly into your module. As an example you can set a red dashed line around cell B2 on Sheet 1 like this: Worksheets("Sheet1").Range("B2").BorderAround LineStyle:=xlDash, ColorIndex:=3 Font You can adjust the cell's font format by setting the font name, style, size, color, adding underlines and or effects (strike through, sub- or superscript). Convert String to Currency You can use the CCur function to convert a string to a currency. See screenshot: 2. The following code will convert a string to an integer: The result is: The following code uses the CLng function to convert a string to an integer: The result is: Note: You can use the CInt or CLng function to convert a string to an integer or long (respectively) data types. Here are the examples of scientific and percentage number formats: Range("A1").NumberFormat = "0.00E+00"Range("B1").NumberFormat = "0.00%" NumberFormatLocal This property returns or sets a variant value that represents the format code for the object as a string in the language of the user. Convert military time to standard with formula in Excel In Excel, you can convert the military time to standard time with formula quickly. Worksheets("Sheet1").Range("A1").IndentLevel = 7 Interior You can set or get returned information about the cell's interior: its Color, ColorIndex, Pattern, PatternColor, PatternColorIndex, PatternThemeColor, PatternTintAndShade, ThemeColor, TintAndShade, like this: If Not Range("A1").Interior.ThemeColor = ThemeColorLight2 Then Range("A1").Interior.Pattern = xlPatternUp Locked This property returns True if the cell or range is locked. False if the object can be modified when the sheet is protected, or Null if the specified range contains both locked and unlocked cells. Worksheets("Sheet1").Range("A1:B2").Locked = False Worksheets("Sheet1").Protect VBA Programming | Code Generator does work for you!MergeCells Set this property to True if you need to merge a range. Be the first to rate! This tutorial will demonstrate how to format cells using VBA. Learn more about AutoMacro - A VBA Code Builder that allows beginners to code procedures from scratch with minimal coding knowledge and with many time-saving features for all users! Learn More! Easily access all of the code examples found on our site. The Long Data type is the same as an integer data type except larger numbers are allowed. AutoMacro | Ultimate VBA Add-in | Click for Free Trial!ShrinkToFit This property returns or sets a variant value that indicates if text automatically shrinks to fit in the available column width. Click OK, you can see the result. Tip: If the military time just has hour and minute such as 2323, you can use this formula =TIMEVALUE(LEFT(A1,2)&":"&RIGHT(A1,2)) and then follow the above steps to convert it to standard time. For example: Worksheets("Sheet1").Range("D3").HorizontalAlignment = xlRight Stop searching for VBA code online. See screenshot: 3. Here are some examples: This property returns or sets a variant value that indicates if the formula will be hidden when the worksheet is protected. For example: Worksheets("Sheet1").Range("A1:B1").FormulaHidden = True HorizontalAlignment This property cell format property returns or sets a variant value that represents the horizontal alignment for the specified object. Its value gets True if a specified range contains merged cells. In the past, the distinction was required because of memory constraints.
