But we haven't found a house yet, so I'm not sure how long we will need you to keep our container for us. I wonder about your taxes. Could you please give me an idea of the cost of the monthly deposit with you? In New York. I've never been, but my wife was in Florida years ago. Do you know Florida? Äċ âċ œSate, Lord, I know. Sunny. Hot.âċ âċ œSate, I liked my wife. It is not well at this moment, my wife. She was from the doctor three times. Äċ Oh, well, I'm sorry to hear it. I hope it's better soon. I wonder, however, on my family asset container. Since can be with you for a few months, I am a little worried about the cost. Could you give me an idea of the monthly storage costs? But don't worry, love, we will solve this. He returned in contact as soon as I can.âċ âċ three days later, I hadn't heard my friend in Dublin, so I called him again. âċ âċ œCiano, I am again, asking to ask for the storage cost for my container.âċ âċ "ah, love, beautiful to hear from you. My wife is not better. It has this cold in the chest, and i Doctors cannot cure it. âċ âċ œl sorry to hear it. âċ âċ œSate, yes, love, do not worry. We have it. We have. Safe and healthy. I have to run now, but my wife is calling. Some idea of the cost of storing my container with you. I am worried that it could be more than we expected. oveva oveva ,enifnl Admit to lief that, although I was pretty sure our container had arrived at the dublin pier and I was in storage, I had no idea the cost of keeping it there. for me, this situation was slightly disconcerting but also fascinating. Clearly, my new friend with the sick wife in dublin was instead of the driver, when we were ready, finally, to take over our things, could present us an account for any amount, thousands of pounds. We have no choice, really, but to pay. However, he was such a sweet and friendly guy. Of course, everything would work, for lief, on the other hand, the situation was in ruins, do not prevent a service without knowing the cost in advance. People don't do business like this. I had to agree with him that, right, the people we knew, at home, at baltimore... they didn't do business like this. But the more my association with the gentleman in dublin continued, the more I came to suspect that, beyond baltimore, well, maybe the business did a little differently. it was almost a year until we were ready for the delivery of our goods in our new house in waterford. all that time, I never managed to convince the kind dublin to quote the cost of memory. In the end, I made a leap of faith and told him when and where to deliver our things. Lief had washed the hands of the situation a long time ago and, after 12 months, I was nervous to see the account. everything was ordered at the end, however, just as I have always been assured that it would have been. the invoice, when it finally arrived, weeks after our personal effects were unpacked in our new home, was modest. less than lief or I would have guessed. I'm telling you this story for two reasons. First of all, we are in the air this week, binding the administrative andfriends once again before our move in six weeks in Panama. As we prepare to say goodbye, I can't help but think about oursWeeks and months as new residents in this country a decade ago. I was reminded of this story in particular, however, the other day when a friend of Paris observed how easy it is to live in the United States than to live almost any other part of the world. Simpler, easier, more convenient, more understood. In business relationships, you know what to expect. Ask a question, get a simple answer. Make an appointment, expect the other parts to be present... over time. You need a plumber, pull out the yellow pages. You want to open a bank account, walk to a bank, no appointment required. In France, you need an introduction to open a bank account. And, even with a reference letter, it will still be necessary to produce a paper of paperwork. To rent an apartment in this country (legally), you will also have to prepare a dense dossier that documents your financial situation and your history, all authenticated, sealed, stamped, testified ... outside the city centers in Ireland, the streets are not TM T marked or even known by name. An Irishman who once asked for this told me that road signs were knocked down during the British rule "" To maintain British hypotheses, he explained with a sparkle. The strategy may or may not have confused the English, but it definitely made me travel around a few days. The friend David Stubbs, who lives in San Jose, Costa Rica, for three years, reports that the Ticos, like the Irish, are not worried about things like road signs. "In Costa Rica," writes David. "All directions start with a well-known point of reference and proceed so many blocks in one direction and many in another. Start from the cemetery and go three blocks north and a block east. ..." "This is even more fun when the reference point does not existFor example, the large tree in the center of the city that fell 50 years ago house in which the Aïrs president lived the last time he was president (20 years ago) âċ âċ âċvelop âċ rol âċâċâċâċâċâ?VMD âċâċâċâ?vm ruoy ot .yrtnuoc eht eht ni ni ni tsuj tsuj rengerif tsrif y tuoba uoba uoba veve i evah~âċ âċâċânsi .s.u ehtâċâċâ ,two strip osla divad hsitirb in ,dnah rehto eht no .s.p droct off ym ni ssapmoc eht wollof dna ot ot tnaw i erehw ylhguor tuo krow i ,emit tsrif eht ecalpemos gnioog mâċâċâi revenehw .dirg eht eht sangetta sangetta syap Teg ot ,erofereht ,ysae eb dluc of ,sngis elbiel yna fo dioved era snoitscetni tcáf eht dna ,nees reve Evâċâċâ's Pamy Eno eno rof ton fi .4 ellac dna 2 adineva fo renroc ehtâ"âċâċâyleiscp denifed EB dluc nocetretni yna taht hcus ,since dna sellac Fo Metasys dirg that tuo jolt eso jolt eso jolt eso jolt eso jolt
